

Wildlife Science Group
School of Environmental and Forest Sciences

Winter Quarter 2018
ESRM 455 & SEFS 554
3:30-4:50 pm; PCAR 192

WILDLIFE SCIENCE SEMINAR
Public Welcome

- Jan 8 *Introduction to the course, and:
Cuddly killers: outdoor cats*
Dr. Laura Prugh, Assistant professor, SEFS
- Jan 15 No seminar, MLK Day
- Jan 22 Fishers, fisher conservation, and restoring fishers in Washington
Dr. Jeff Lewis, Mesocarnivore Conservation Biologist, Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife
- Jan 29 Tree kangaroo conservation program in Papua New Guinea
Dr. Lisa Daubek, Senior Conservation Scientists, Woodland Park Zoo
- Feb 5 White rabbit, white rabbit, white rabbit: the central yet vanishing role of snowshoe hares in the Great Lakes region
Dr. Jonathan Pauli, Associate Professor, University of Wisconsin Madison
- Feb 12 Beyond behavior: utilizing biologgers to understand more about wildlife responses to external stimuli
Dr. Mark Ditmer, Postdoctoral Research Associate, University of Minnesota
- Feb 19 No seminar, President's Day
- Feb 26 Elk hoof rot disease in Washington
Kyle Garrison, Wildlife Biologist, Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife
- Mar 5 Molecular detection of invasive feral pigs
Kelly Williams, Genetics Lab Manager, SEFS

This seminar meets from 3:30-4:50 pm in room PCAR 192. Undergraduate students may register for credit under ESRM 455; graduate students under SEFS 554. The public is welcome.